Badly Frightens the Doctors—Arrival of Robinson's Circus—Story of Street Parade and Performance—Tonight's Show

John Robinson's big circus is here, and Live Oak is in holiday attire. The town is crowded with strangers—the largest crowd ever in the place. The railroads brought excursionists from all the nearby towns. The pikes were lined with vehicles and many performances. It is the best circus ever here.

Street Parade.
The parade through the streets was witnessed by a great throng and attracted great attention. The parade moved at 10 a. m., and so perfect is the carving and col-

NEGROES PACKED THE STREETS NEAR THE THEATER

"CLANSMAN" MAKES ROW

The Riot Call Was Sent In and Half a Hundred Policemen Sent To Scene

Philadelphia, Oct. 22. — Under most unusual conditions "The Clansman" was produced here tonight at the Walnut street theatre. The colored clergy of the city had made a formal protest to Mayor Weaver against the production of the play, claiming that "lynchings have been encouraged by the play." The mayor refused to take any action.

About a half hour before the theatre opened, Ninth and Walnut streets, where the playhouse is located, were packed with colored people. Director of Public Safety McKinley, who realizing the danger, had hastened to the scene, begged the ministers, who seemed to have complete control of the multitude to disperse the mob.

Riot Call Sent In.

A riot call was sent in and five police patrol wagons brought half a hundred policemen to the theatre. The colored ministers surrounded Director McKinley and demanded that he stop the play. The director delivered a brief speech, asking the crowd to disperse, and saying that he would endeavor to have the play discontinued after tonight. This seemed to have a soothing effect on the crowd, and it slowly scattered.

Early in the morning a colored man attempted to create a disturbance in the theatre. He was arrested, but the police had considerable difficulty in rescuing him from the crowd in the gallery.

The ape received all the different phases of hydrotherapy in a strangely intelligent manner, at times almost expressing enjoyment at the baths, especially the electric light bath, which she declined to leave. A big crowd watched her.

However, when the Swedish movements were tried she had barely been placed upon the vibrating chair when she uttered a sharp scream and tore away from the attendants and threw nearly 200 people who had gathered to witness the experiment into a panic. The ape was captured in a small stairway and taken to a place of safety. One attendant was injured before the animal was effectively bound.

The results of her action were recorded by physicians and will be recorded by physicians and reported to the American Medical society at their annual meeting.

Miss Darwin was in the street parade this morning, and takes part in both the afternoon and night performances.

Cut Off Appendicitis.

"Olo Folks," a chimpanzee, belonging to the show, was operated on today for appendicitis and seems likely to recover. The simian was suffering greatly when a physician was called, and seemed to have intestinal trouble. When placed under anaesthetics and examined the appendix was found to be inflamed and swollen from the presence of foreign substances. It was cut out and "Olo Folks" immediately began to improve.

Tonight's Show.

Doors open at 7 p. m. Performance starts at 8 p. m. Those going tonight should be present by 7:30 p. m.

The "Smart Set."

Society people are much interested in the Live Oak girl with Robinson's circus. The "Smart Set," will attend tonight, and welcome her. "Who is she?" is the question of the hour.

oring that, if not for the wheels under it and the horses pulling it, would look like a real giant pea cock flying through space with musicians on its huge back. The second band wagon is a facsimile of the Dragon of Holy Writ. In the pageant were elephants, camels, battleships, tableau wagons, chariots, lady trumpeters on horseback, sacred cattle, water buffaloes, Indians, U. S. Cavalry, clowns and a host of minor novelties. In the rear was the steam pipe piano and during the parade it continually pealed forth the familiar airs of the day breezy notes such as might have been made by a musical fog horn.

The Irrepressible.

"Doc" Waddell, the irrepressible, who bills himself the airship of the John Robinson circus tells this story: After correspondence covering more than two weeks Dr. John F. Kellogg, of the sanitarium at Battle Creek, was nonplussed when Miss Marjorie Darwin was accompanied to the institution and registered for treatment.

After considerable discussion Dr.

IMMENSE PLANING MILL.

Mill Men With Money Have Established It at Greenville, Fla. (Jacksonville Metropolis.)

The planing mill plant of the Greenville Manufacturing Company, Greenville, Fla., is nearing completion. The last shipment of machinery having arrived a few days ago, and is now being put in position. When completed this will be one of the largest and most up-to-date plants of its kind in Florida, and will have a monthly pay roll of several thousand dollars. The company is composed of half a dozen or more of the say mill men owning large mills in this immediate vicinity, and will handle their entire output of planing stock, together with that of a number of smaller mills. The company expects to in the near future put in other manufacturing plants, such as a novelty works and a plant for the manufacture of artificial stone. They will also erect a number of dwellings for renting. Greenville is an ideal location for almost any kind of manufacturing enterprise. Being located at the junction of two of the largest trunk lines of railways, it has as good freight facilities as any interior town in the state. It is right in the edge of what is probably the largest body of yellow pine timber in Florida, and is right in the heart of the very farming section of the State. The sea island and upland cotton grown as successfully as in any other section.

Among the guests at the dinner today are: J. W. Duncan, Jacksonville; J. A. Spear, Lake City; A. A. May, Aucilla; C. N. Hartman and J. P. Turner, Fenhol; J. M. Henderson, Mayo; J. O'Brien; C. B. McClen; C. H. Hall, Branford; J. R. Rozier, Mayo; S. G. White, White Springs.
